DISCUSSION

A proper appeal of a decision by the Senate's Open Records Officer must include two written copies of the appeal delivered or mailed to the Appeals Officer. Electronic filing is not permitted. The appeal must also specifically refer to any disputed factual or legal matter in the denial and the grounds upon which the it is asserted that the requested records are legislative or financial records.

67 P.S. §67.1101; 104 Pa.Code §7.23(b)(1)

The requester in this appeal attempted to file by electronic filing. Requester did not provide two written copies of the appeal to the Appeals Officer. Requester did not specifically dispute any factual or legal matter in the denial of access to records. Indeed, the Appeals Officer does not even have a mailing address for this requester.

For the foregoing reasons, this appeal is dismissed and the Senate is not required to take any further action. If filed within fifteen business days of the original denial of access, this appeal may be refiled and include copies of all documents existing or submitted so far in this appeal.
